Pinchot Assails Governor Smith In Statement

By Associated Press.
HARRISBURG, June 2.—Every bootlegger and every red will be encouraged by the action of Governor Smith of New York in signing the bill repealing New York state prohibition measure Governor Pinchot declared today in a statement in which he promised that whatever any other state has done or may do Pennsylvania will stand by the constitution and the laws of the United States.

The governor asserted that the action of Governor Smith will make every loyal American doubly determined to see that the constitution and laws of the Union are respected and that his action will undoubtedly draw the line more clearly and hasten our final victory.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Governor Smith's signature on the repeal of the Mullin-Gage prohibition enforcement act has killed his chance of being nominated for the presidency, but has strengthened his political standing in the state. W. H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, declared today.

LOCAL FIRM AWARDED CONTRACTS FOR ROADS TOTALING $250,000

GREENSBURG, June 2.—Contracts were awarded for two sections of reinforced concrete roads in Westmoreland county by County Commissioners George W. Deeds, W. Dick, Rouner and E. F. Hibbs in the presence of a large crowd of interested people yesterday.

The United Kockburg road 3 1/2 miles in Mount Pleasant township was awarded to the Corrado & Caldwell of Connellsville for $224,000, the firm being the lowest bidder. John D. Sherrick, representing the township and supervisors of Mount Pleasant township sharing equally in the cost of the improvement was present and signed the supervisors' concurrence in the letting.

The Scottsdale-Smithton road which extends from the Scottdale through the westward towards Smithton for a mile and a half of similar construction to the United Kockburg road was also awarded to Corrado & Caldwell the lowest bidder for $25,000. The Fast Huntingdon township supervisors are holding their regular monthly meeting in Scottdale at the time. The supervisors George W. Smokey, John S. Diller and Clark L. Gadd arrived in the commissioners' office at noon and executed their approval of the letting in their township.

Philip G. Gilder, representing the successful bidder was also present and it was arranged that he will be in town on Monday morning when County Road Engineer William G. Mose will have ready the contracts for execution on the part of the firm.

ANNIVERSARY OF YOUNGEST MEMBER OF POST OBSERVED

Chicken and Other Good Things
Served by Family of Isaac Mineard.

W. H. SHAW COMES NEXT

Seven members of William F. Kutz Post No. 101 G and A of the R. A. public assembly yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver C. Mineard in Stephen street to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the birth of their cousin Isaac Mineard, father of Oliver C. Mineard. The party will be remembered by the committee as one of the most delightful social functions in the history of the post.

The family of Isaac Mineard and his wife left nothing, unusual towards looking after the comfort and entertainment of their aged guests. The house was from 2 to 6 o'clock. The earlier part of the afternoon was devoted to war stories and jokes told by the soldiers and comrades in charge of command. W. J. Clark of the post who also presided over the program which opened with a prayer by Rev. J. H. Lamberton, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, followed. Mr. Mineard gave a brief talk extending welcome to his comrades. Mr. Mineard resided near Dunbar and yesterday was the first time home of the last member of the post. The opportunity of celebrating the anniversary of his birth. He is the youngest member of the post.

Colonel James J. Burnhart in his speech said he was glad he was in the war and to be able to serve in the cavalry. Colonel A. H. Burnhart told of the life on an Indian reservation during the Civil War. Burnhart said he saw one of the oldest members of the post, Isaac Mineard, who was 83 years old on Saturday. He said he had an invitation to all present to his birthday party to be held at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Shaw, North Sixth street and Meadon Avenue West Side.

Comrades J. J. Jones and C. H. Whitely also gave talks appropriate to the occasion. Rev. J. H. Lamberton dwelt upon the importance of an international covenant to settle the disputes of all nations and to prevent further war.

Lyman S. Stucker and J. J. Jones, one of the present speakers, told of parties was held at the home of the present speaker.

At the close of the program, the guests were invited to the lawn in the rear of the home where in elaborate dinner was served. It was a large table decorated with roses and garlands. The menu consisted of chicken, beef, turkey, fish, and vegetables. There was also a large amount of cake, Mrs. J. J. Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mineard, baked a marble birthday cake. The cake was cut and served to the guests.

Following the dinner, Colonel Clark called upon Colonel Burnhart to make a speech. He responded by following a brief review of the life of Isaac Mineard. He said he had an invitation to all present to his birthday party to be held at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Shaw, North Sixth street and Meadon Avenue West Side.

Mr. Mineard was a member of Company 18th Regiment because of poor health he was unable to attend the activities of the post. He was in his usual health yesterday and was present, enjoyed the afternoon meeting and the dinner.

Colonel Clark and J. J. Jones, one of the present speakers, told of parties was held at the home of the present speaker.

DIER STOPS TO WATCH CLAY PIGEON SHOOT IN FIELD NEAR DAWSON

While members of the Dawson Gun Club were engaged in a clay pigeon shoot Memorial Day near the race track a deer trotted down over the H. J. Cochran farm leaped the fence onto the state road and then into the field where the shoot was in progress. It walked to within a few hundred yards of the gunners and stood watching them for fully five minutes and then started off over the hills toward Connellsville.

Several deer have been seen in the past few weeks in the vicinity of Dawson.

CITY EXPERIENCING LONG RUN OF WARM DAYS; RAIN NEEDED

Connellsville is experiencing a long run of very hot weather at a rather early season this year today morning, the light on which the temperature had been at a figure too high for a comfort.

Although beginning with June 1st very hot weather was experienced here for 12 days in a row the weather soon descended rather this season beginning with May 27. On that day the mercury went to 88 degrees and held the same position on the 28th. On May 27 however it climbed to 90 and then to 92 on the following day dropping again to 90 on the 30th. Memorial Day saw the thermometer registering 92 degrees and while it dropped to 88 on May 31 the reading yesterday again showed 92 degrees. At 11 o'clock this morning it seemed that it would exceed 100 today.

The minimum temperature recorded at night has also been steadily increasing and last night the coolest point was 66 degrees.

The need of rain is being daily felt and the Youghiogheny river is at a very low stage for this season. The reading this morning showed it to be 135 feet 1 1/2 inches, dropped from 150 feet during the night.

The weather forecast today gave no promise of relief. It said warm and being the prediction.

Daily Vacation Bible School.
A daily vacation bible school will be opened June 18 for a period of five weeks at the Christian Church. The school is for all children of Conneltsville between the ages of six and 12 years. It will be an undenominational school for the purpose of giving instruction in the Bible and a subordinate purpose there is the wish to keep the child profitably employed during the vacation period. The school will be under the direction of Miss Virginia M. Lewis, teacher of English in the High School, who will be the supervisor and a co-instructor in with Miss Lewis. She has special training in story telling and Bible study. Two other competent instructors are to be named one of whom is from the primary school. The plan is to divide the children in three groups. The first will be made up of children six to eight years of age, the second nine to 11 years and the third of boys and girls 12 years and over. Each group will be held at 4 o'clock and last in 12:30. The first will be held in the High School, the second in the Christian Church and the third in the Christian Church. The expense is a charge of six cents a day per pupil will be made. RASH ALL OVER CHILD'S HEAD

Scalp Sore and Red. Awake At Night. Cuticura Heals.

My little girl's head started itching and then a rash broke out all over it. Her scalp was covered with a red and itched so that she could not sleep. I tried everything but nothing helped. I then bought Cuticura and used it as directed. In a few days the rash was gone and she was sleeping peacefully. I am so glad that I found Cuticura. It is a wonderful medicine for all skin diseases.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

True Courtesy. Children learn courtesy from imitation. I try to be very careful about discussing friends or servants before my child. It is a particularly grave mistake to resolve a grievance with courtesy and then as soon as she is gone criticize her before the child. (Copyright, 1928, Associated Editors.)

Y. M. C. A. Worker to Speak. Sunday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock the Greenwood Methodist Episcopal Sunday school will celebrate Building Fund Day in a special manner. J. C. Mace of Pittsburg, who has been one of the leaders in Y. M. C. A. circles and is a speaker of prominence in the Tri-State region will be here. He has chosen for his subject "I'm From Missouri." The building day services have been regular monthly affairs. Among those who have been present and spoken on these occasions are President Baker of W. & J. College, Judge Van Swearingen of Uniontown, and Professor Armstrong of West Virginia University.

Thought Bozu Was for Her. Nine-year-old Marian is her Aunt Marian's pet. And whenever Aunt Marian is a successful young business woman, buys herself any luxury she buys one for Marian, too.

For instance, when she bought an umbrella for herself she bought a parasol for Marian. She bought a bicycle to journey to business, and Marian a tricycle. She bought a big rocking chair for herself, and Marian a little one.

The other evening she came home with a new admirer, who was one of those fellows whom nature has made of the diminutive order.

For a minute Marian eyed him, and then she asked: "All right, auntie, I like him. But where's yours?"

How He Looked to Him. "Do tell me something about the play," she said to the young man. "They said the climax was superb."

"Yes, I am inclined to think it was very good," said Percy.

"Can't you describe it to me?" she asked.

"Well, the heroine came stealthily on the stage and knelt, dagger in hand, behind a clump of ribbons. The hero emerged from a large bunch of purple flowers and as soon as she perceived him she fell upon him, stabbed him and sank half-conscious into a very handsome alibi. This may sound queer, but the woman in front of me wouldn't remove her hat and that's how it looked."

She Probably Wouldn't. "She's wearing one of those Egyptian dresses."

"Yes, I wonder how she'd like it if I told her she looked like a mummy."

Nothing Helped until She Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"When my baby was born," says Mrs. Postluszny, 106 High Street, Bay City, Michigan, "I got up too soon. It made me so sick that I was tired of living and the weakness ran me down something awful. I could not get up out of bed morning after morning on account of my baby. I thought it would break in two, and if I started to do any work I would have to lie down. I do not believe that any woman ever suffered worse than I did. I spent lots of money, but nothing helped me until I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I felt a whole lot better after the first bottle, and I am still taking it for I am sure it is what has put me on my feet."

If you are suffering from a displacement, irregularities, backache, nervousness, headache or any other form of female weakness you should write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts, for Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Toilet Compound. "Aliments Peculiar to Women." It will be sent you free upon request. This book contains valuable information.

If you gamble with your eyes, you are playing a losing game. Don't take a chance on your most precious possession. Learn the exact truth from us.

A Romance

Zane Grey

At length a mile of crenelated, brown slope, ridged and grooved like a washboard, led gently down to meet the floor of the valley, where the scant grass-crests struggled to give a tinge of gray. The road appeared to become more clearly defined, and could be seen striking straight across the valley.

To Madeline's dismay, that road led down to a deep, narrow wash. The crossing would have been laborious for a horse; for an automobile it was impossible. Link drove back to the road, crawled in, and kept on down the line of the wash. It was a deep cut in red earth, worn straight down by swift water in the rainy season. It narrowed. When Link reached the narrowest point he got out of the car and walked from place to place. Once with a little jump he cleared the wash. Then Madeline noted that the further she went the lower. In a flash she divined Link's intention. He was buying a place to jump the car over the crack in the ground.

Soon he found one that seemed to suit him, for he tied his red scarf upon a gnarled bush. Then, returning to the car, he clambered in, backed up the gentle slope and halted just short of steeper ground. Hunching low over the wheel, he started, slowly at first, then faster, and then faster. The great car gave a spring like a huge tiger. The impact of suddenly formed wheel almost tore Madeline out of her seat. She felt Nels' powerful hands on her shoulders. She closed her eyes. The jolting headway of the car gave place to a gliding rush. This was broken by a slight jar, and then above the hum and roar rose a cowboy yell. Madeline waited with strained nerves for the expected crash. It did not come. Crossing her eyes, she saw the level valley floor without a break. She had not even noticed the instant when the car had shot over the wash.

A strange breathlessness attacked her, and she attributed it to the exhilaration with which she was being carried along. Pulling the hood down over her face, she sank low in the seat. The while of the car now seemed to be a world-filling sound. There was a long, blank period from which she awakened to feel an arm supporting her. Then she realized. The velocity of the car had been cut to the speed to which she was accustomed. Throwing back the hood, she breathed freely again, recovered fully.

The car was bowling along a wide road upon the outskirts of a city. Madeline asked what place it could be.

"Douglas," replied Link. "An' jest around is Agua Prieta."

That last name seemed to start Madeline. She heard no more, and knew little until the car stopped. Nels spoke to some one. Then sight of khaki-clad soldiers quickened Madeline's faculties. She was on the boundary-line between the United States and Mexico, and Agua Prieta, with its white and blue-walled houses, its brown-tiled roofs, lay before her. A cavalry officer approached the car, stared, and removed his sombrero.

"Can you tell me anything about Stewart, the American cowboy who was captured by rebels a few days ago?" asked Madeline.

"Yes," replied the officer. "Stewart is reported to have done reckless fighting and was captured. He got a Mexican sentence. He is known here along the border, and the news of his capture stirred up excitement. We did all we could to get his release. The guerrillas feared to execute him here, and believed he might be aided to escape. So a detachment departed with him for Mezquital."

"He was sentenced to be shot Thursday at sunset—tonight?"

"Yes. I regret that I can't give you definite information. If you are friends of Stewart's—relatives—I might find out."

"I am his wife," interrupted Madeline. "Will you please read these?" She handed him the telegram. "Ad-vise me—help me, if you can!"

With a wondering glance at her the officer received the telegram. He read several, and whistled low in his throat. His manner became quick, alert, serious.

"I can't read these written in Spanish, but I know the names signed." Swiftly he ran through the others. "Why, these mean Stewart's release has been authorized. They explain mysterious rumors we have heard here. Greaser treachery! For some strange reason messages from the rebel junta have failed to reach their destination. I'll go with you to General Salazar, the rebel chief in command. I know him. Perhaps we can find out something."

Nels made room for the officer. Link went the car whirling across the line into Mexican territory. The road ended in an immense plain, in the center of which was a circular structure that in some measure resembled a corral. It was a bull-ring, where the national sport of bull-fighting was carried on.

Madeline caught a glimpse of tents laid out, then her view was obstructed by a curious, presiding throne. The cavalry officer leaped from the car, and pushed his way into the entrance. From seating was this crowded, lit-up place. The sun red and lowering had slipped far down in the west, but still burned with lurid heat. A mass of faces looked over the car. The shadows of low-sailing buzzards crossed Madeline's sight. Then she saw a row of the huge, uncanny black birds sitting upon the tiled roof of a honor. They had neither an air of sleeping nor resting. They were waiting. She fought off a horrible ghastly idea before its full realization.

Suddenly the crowd parted to let a cavalry officer and a rebel of striking presence get to the car.

"Madeline, it is I, Stewart," said the officer, quickly. "The messages directing Salazar's release never reached Salazar. They were intercepted. But even without them we might have secured Stewart's exchange if it had not been for the fact that one of his captors wanted him shot. This guerrilla intercepted the orders, and then was instrumental in taking Stewart to Mezquital. It is exceedingly sad. Why, he should be a few minutes this instant. I regret—"

"Who did this—this thing?" cried Madeline, cold as steel. "Who is the guerrilla?"

"Senor Don Carlos Martinez. He has been a bandit, a man of influence in Sonora. He is more of a secret agent in the affairs of the revolution than an active participant. But he has seen guerrilla service."

"Don Carlos! Stewart in his power! Oh, God!" Madeline sank down, almost overcome. Then two great hands powerful, thrilling, clasped her shoulders, and Nels bent over her.

"Miss Madeline, shape your waiting time here," he said. "His value, like his hands, was uplifted. She allowed to him in trembling impatience. How solid, bright, blue the flash of his eyes! They told Madeline she must not weep. But she could not stop her thought to Nels—could only look at Link.

"It figures impossible, but I'll do it!" said Link Stevens, in answer to her voiceless query.

"Can I get a permit to go into the interior—to Mezquital?" asked Madeline of the officer.

"You are going out? Madeline, it's a foolish hope. Mezquital is a hundred miles away. By the way, a chance—the here to chance if your man can drive this car. The Mexicans are either nervous or cautious. In their executives. The arrangements for Stewart's will be elaborate. But, barring unusual circumstances, it will take place probably at the hour designated. You need no permit. Your man's papers are official papers. But to save time, perhaps delay, I suggest you take this Mexican, Senor Montes, with you. He outranks Don Carlos and knows the captain of the Mezquital detachment."

"I thank you, sir. I shall not forget your kindness," concluded Madeline.

The white, narrow road flashed out of the foreground, slipped with lightning rapidity under the car. When she reached a clump of cactus far ahead it seemed to elude her, to speed behind her even the instant she noticed it. Nevertheless, Madeline knew Link was not putting the car to its limit. Swiftly as he was driving, he had something in reserve. And every foot and blade and branch of cactus bore wicked thorns, any one of which would be fatal to a tire.

It came at length, the bursting report. The car lurched, went on like a crippled thing, and halted, obedient to the master hand at the wheel. Swift as Link was in replacing the tire, he lost time. The red sun, more sullen, darker as it neared the black, bold horizon, appeared to mock Madeline, to eye her in derision.

Link leaped in, and the car sprang ahead. The road began to wind up; it turned and twisted in tantalizing, lazy curves; it was in no hurry to surmount a hill that began to assume proportions of a mountain; it was leisurely, as were all things in Mexico except strife. That was quick, fierce, bloody—it was Spanish.

The Radio Special

-a New Gardner Sport Model

In but few automobiles built today has outstanding mechanical excellence been so well combined with true distinctiveness of appearance and equipment as in the new Gardner Four "Radio Special."

The "Radio Special" is finished in Gardner Limousine Blue, with black crown fenders and blue Tourist steel wheels, striped in gold.

The engine that drives the "Radio Special" is the same notably improved 43-horsepower motor found in all the latest Gardner Fours—the only four-cylinder motor with a five-bearing crankshaft, and one that also embodies a considerable number of other important improvements.

Included in the "Radio Special", too, are all the other chassis and body features that go to make up perfectly balanced value in the Gardner Four—among them a more efficient braking system, with larger braking area; a clutch with 50 per cent lighter action; the heavier frame, with five cross-members; lower, deeper seat, set at an earlier angle.

The first showing of the Gardner "Radio Special" is now being made. Let us demonstrate this "Guaranteed Car" guaranteed in writing for one year.
